Enhance your lifestyle, increase your property value and enjoy all of your new digital music sources from anywhere in your home by installing a modern multi-room audio system. Chances are, your home is the most important thing in your life.

That's why you should consider personalizing your home by fine-tuning its ambiance to envelop your senses in every possible way. Because it's not just how your home looks, it's also how it sounds that sets it apart. Over the past decade, sound around the house or multi-room audio has become a necessity for contemporary living.

Having sound around the house in the old days was a limited. It involved a boom box or mini stereo system in every room. But that just doesn't cut it today for several reasons; the vast majority of boom boxes and mini systems look and sound terrible and it simply takes up too much space to have separate sound systems spread throughout the house.

This is why multi-room audio is taking the country by storm. It enables everyone in the family to listen to whatever they wish, whenever they want and wherever they desire to listen. Simple, intuitive user interfaces with one-button control and on-screen menus make all the difference. They make operating such a complex system child's play.

What makes these systems so powerful is the advanced networking technology. Plug in any source in any combination and any user interface to any network port and the multi-zone receiver will auto-discover what you've connected, where you've connected it and automatically set your sources up for immediate use. If you've connected your iPod to the system, you can select it with a single button press and all of the artist, album, song and track data can be read directly from the user interface.

If an XM tuner is inserted in source slot number two, then XM channel guides and "now-playing" information show up on any user interface on source button number two, and they are automatically labeled "XM". Press the XM button and your favorite XM station starts to play. It's that easy.

"For Sony, BRAVIA is the next step in the evolution of TV," said Randy Waynick, Senior Vice president of Sony Electronics Home Products Division. "Our new flat-panels feature an attractive design and brilliant picture, which simply has to be seen to be appreciated."
